UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT CHAPEL HILL
DEPARTMENT OF ATHLETICS
STATEMENT ON GAMBLING

The mission of the Department of Athletics is to sponsor a broad-based athletic program that provides educational and athletic opportunities for young men and women to grow and develop. In keeping with the Department’s mission and the University’s commitment to educational interests, competitive athletic programs, and integrity in all areas, the Department of Athletics strongly condemns the influence of gambling on intercollegiate athletics.

Student gambling is a significant issue on college campuses. Furthermore, student-athlete involvement in gambling has produced many tragic situations, both for student-athletes themselves, and for the universities they represent. As participants in intercollegiate athletics, student-athletes often compete in contests that generate interest from those involved in gambling, and possibly organized crime. If given the opportunity, these interests will not hesitate to exploit the position that student-athletes hold on college campuses. As such, the University of North Carolina is firmly opposed to all forms of gambling and bribery related to intercollegiate athletics.

To fulfill its obligation to educate student-athletes about the influence of gambling, the Department provides a gambling education program to all student-athletes and departmental staff members. This statement and the educational program are reflections of the Department’s commitment to keeping intercollegiate athletics free from the influences of gambling and its related activities.

The Department requires its staff members and student-athletes to adhere to NCAA, state, and federal laws regarding gambling. In the interest of fair competition and the growth and development of student-athletes the Department strongly urges its friends and supporters to refrain from gambling, betting on contests involving collegiate competition and to abide by state and federal laws regarding this matter.

MEMO TO THE MEDIA COVERING NORTH CAROLINA SWIMMING AND DIVING

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill’s Athletic Media Relations and Publications Office is always interested in helping members of the media in their coverage of the Carolina swimming program.

Men’s and women’s swimming and diving publicity is handled by Dave Lohse, Director of Media Relations for Olympic Sports and Director of Publications at the University of North Carolina. Lohse has handled publicity for the Tar Heel swimming teams for 24 successive seasons beginning in the 1977-78 school year. Lohse has served extensively on the staff of major national and international aquatics events over the past 24 years in the sports information business so he is familiar with the media needs in aquatics sports. In 1996, he served as one of four venue press chiefs at the Georgia Tech Aquatics Center at the Centennial Olympic Games in Atlanta, Ga. In 1988, Lohse served as the U.S. Olympic Committee press officer for diving at the Olympic Games in Seoul, South Korea. He also served as a U.S. Olympic Committee press officer for diving at the 1986 U.S. Olympic Festival in Houston, Texas and for swimming at the 1987 U.S. Olympic Festival in Chapel Hill, N.C. In addition, Lohse was the venue press chief for the aquatics center at the 1994 Gay Games in New York City.

Photographs, feature ideas and statistics are available from Lohse’s office. His staff will be happy to assist the media with their needs in those areas. Credentials for all Carolina home swimming meets, held at the Maurice J. Koury Natatorium, should be arranged through Lohse. You can also contact Lohse for credentials for the 2000 Atlantic Coast Conference Swimming Championships which will be held in Chapel Hill.

Interviews with members of the Carolina men’s and women’s swimming and diving teams should be arranged through Lohse. Interviews are usually conducted on weekdays either before or after practice sessions in the Athletic Media Relations and Publications Office at the Smith Center.

UNC head swimming coach Frank Comfort can be reached for interviews by calling his office at (919) 966-5340 or (919) 962-6000, Ext. 239. Comfort’s office is located on the pool deck of Koury Natatorium. His secretary is Sharon Wagner and her telephone number is (919) 962-6000, Ext. 291. Assistant head coach Bill Tramel can be reached by calling (919) 962-6000, Ext. 240.

Dave Lohse of the sports information office provides all written copy for the swimming site.

CAROLINA ATHLETIC TRADITIONS

University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill athletic teams are nicknamed the Tar Heels, have a ram for a mascot and wear the school colors Carolina Blue and White. Here are the stories behind the origins of those traditions.

North Carolina is nicknamed "The Tar Heel State" and, as the state university, UNC naturally adopted Tar Heels as its monicker. Two explanations for the origin of the nickname both involve the state’s long-time production of tar, pitch and turpentine products. One theory dates back to the Revolutionary War when troops led by British General Charles Cornwallis attempted to ford the Tar River between Rocky Mount and Battleboro. The local residents had dumped large amounts of tar in the river to impede the British crossing, in the process turning the soldiers’ feet completely black with tar. Another story about the nickname came about during the Civil War. After a battle in which a North Carolina brigade had to fight it out alone, the soldiers were greeted with taunts from fellow Confederates after returning to camp, asking if there was any tar left in North Carolina. The Carolina troops shot back, “No, Jefferson Davis has bought it all up. He’s going to put it on you ns heels to make you stick better in the next fight.” Carolina athletic teams have a ram named Rameses as their athletic mascot. UNC had no mascot until November 1924 when head cheerleader Vic Huggins convinced athletic officials the school needed one, just like its rival institutions. The idea for a ram was to honor Jack Merritt, a great star on the 1922 football team who had been nicknamed “The Battering Ram.”

The adoption of Carolina Blue and White as school colors dates to the 19th century. The colors were chosen after the Civil War from the official colors of the University’s two literary societies, the Dialectic and the Philanthropic. The blue is referred to by others as light blue, sky blue or powder blue, but the correct name for the shade is the distinctly unique...
As the University of North Carolina swimming and diving program enters the second year of a new century, it faces some definite challenges to keep atop the Atlantic Coast Conference while also improving its national standing. But the attitude around the Maurice J. Koury Natatorium these days is nothing short of giddy with optimism and the Tar Heels seem excited about the tasks that face them during the 2000-01 season.

Last year Carolina made a major step forward with its women's program, claiming the University's first Atlantic Coast Conference championship since 1996. Since that time Clemson had won the championship in 1997 and Virginia had claimed two titles in a row in 1998 and 1999. The Tar Heels entered last year as an underdog to Virginia but a concerted team effort led to a decisive victory in the ACC Championships at Koury Natatorium.

After winning six successive ACC titles from 1991-96, the women's program has been settling for second place finishes in the league for three seasons in a row. That was something that the competitive swimmers who make up the Carolina program were simply not satisfied with. So they went out and did something about it.

Meanwhile, after winning six straight league championships from 1993-98, the UNC men were dethroned in 1999, finishing third behind both Virginia and Florida State. The 2000 result was not entirely satisfying for the Carolina men's team. Virginia repeated as the league champion but the Tar Heels did swim almost as well as they were capable of swimming and they did move up to second place in the league.

And with only three seniors departing from the 2000 team the Tar Heel men have a lot to be optimistic about as they get ready for the 2000-01 season.

Still, as Carolina begins to embark on another season with the traditional lidlifter against national powerhouse University of Georgia looming on the horizon on Thursday, October 19, this year's team, both of them, know they have plenty of work ahead of them. “Early this fall, we challenged both of our teams to be as good as they can possibly be this year,” says Frank Comfort, head coach of the Tar Heels’ program no in his 24th year at the helm on The Hill. “We did not have a huge amount of graduation losses from last year so our talent level this year has a chance to be very high. We should be an experienced group. And we should have depth. But we need to work hard at continuing to develop the outstanding team chemistry with had in our program last year. We cannot take that chemistry as a given. We must work at it and be ever vigilant. That team chemistry was a huge part of the success we enjoyed last year.

“In all honesty, we may have very similar results to what we had last year but if this year’s team will take to heart the concept of being as good as they are capable of being I think everyone at the end of the season will have a much more satisfying experience. That may mean we won’t win championships this year. But that is something we very much want to do. But improvement on the part of all 70 student-athletes in our program and a solid team chemistry will have shown that we made tremendous progress as a program in 2000-01.”

North Carolina enters the fray with solid rosters on both teams. The men's team includes 31 swimmers and four divers. The women's team is comprised of 30 swimmers and five divers. This group includes 22 participants at the 2000 United States Olympic Swimming Trials--nine men and 13 women. Of that group, five swimmers--four women and one man--were semifinalists at the Trials and Sean Quinn (men's 200-meter breast-stroke) and Molly Freedman (women's 200-meter butterfly) were both finalists in their events. So there is a strong talent base for the Tar Heel coaching staff to work with in 2000-01.

Last year, the Tar Heel men turned in a fine performance during the dual meet season and then did extremely well at the ACC Championships. UNC finished 6-4 in dual meets with all four losses to nationally-ranked teams. The Heels were 3-2 in Atlantic Coast Conference dual meets. UNC went on to place second at the ACC Championships, improving by one place its finish over the 1999 campaign. The Tar Heels also improved from 30th to 28th in the NCAA Championships over the previous year which was as much as could be expected as the Tar Heel only had three NCAA qualifiers.

On the women's side, the dual meet season went well with a 9-2 overall mark and a 4-1 ACC ledger. The Tar Heels lost only to NCAA champion Georgia and to Virginia in dual-meet competition while scoring significant wins over both Minnesota and Michigan. At the ACC Championships the senior trio of Jennifer Strasburger, Kelly McLaughlin and Ilana Kavadlo virtually willed the Tar Heels to win. None of the seniors had ever competed on a team which had won the conference championship. Carolina took control of the championship meet on day one with a gutsy performance and did not let go from there, coasting to a comfortable margin of victory on day three.

The Tar Heels also achieved some important goals at the NCAA Women's Swimming Championships in 2000 as fine individual performances by junior Summer Mack and senior Katie Hathaway and some solid relay swimming helped improve Carolina's ranking from 20th in 1999 to 15th in 2000. More improvement is expected from the Tar Heels this year.

Leadership for this year's team will come from an outstanding senior class. Last year the Heels had only six seniors total, the three aforementioned female athletes and a men's class that featured butterfly David Weeks and divers Christian Zuberg and Kevin Mangum.

This year's senior class includes a solid group of five men's swimmers. The corps is led by captains Brad Kline from Charlotte, N.C. and Dave Slawinski from East Brunswick, N.J. Kline is in his second year as a team captain and he has developed into a solid middle distance freestyler, one of the tops in the ACC. Kline also competed admirably for UNC in the 200 Olympic Trials. Slawinski had a breakthrough year in 2000-01 as he excelled at the ACC Championships and went on to earn honorable mention All-America honors in the 200-yard breaststroke at the NCAA Championships.

Further leadership for the Tar Heel men's team will come from senior Mark Siedman (Cleveland Heights, Ohio), a solid three-year performer in the individual medley and the backstroke, as well as seniors Dave Meschke (Marietta, Ga.) in the breaststroke and Taylor Marks (Raleigh, N.C.) in the butterfly and distance freestyle.

The women's team will be led by a talented group of six senior members, all swimmers—in fact there are no senior divers on either Carolina team this year. Fifth-year senior Erika Acuff (Gladyne, Pa.), senior Summer Mack (Satellite Beach, Fla.) and senior Lauren Silva (Aurora, Ill.) are all returning All-America performers for the Tar Heels. Senior butterflier Kristin Lozeau (Ashburnham, Mass.) is also a past NCAA qualifier and a 2000 U.S. Olympic Trials participant. The remainder of the class includes breaststroker Johanna Overton (Englewood, Colo.) and backstroker Erica Vrana (Chapel Hill, N.C.).

Acuff, Mack and Silva all turned in outstanding swims this past summer at the U.S. Olympic Trials with both Acuff and Mack advancing to the semifinals. Acuff excels in both individual medley events and she is also extremely versatile as a breaststroker, butterflier and relay swimmer. Mack's signature events are the 100-yard butterfly and the 100-yard backstroke where she pulled off an impressive double at last year's NCAA Championships. But she also stands as the school record holder and the defending ACC champion in the 200-yard backstroke.

Senior butterflier Jo Ann Overton (Englewood, Colo.) was lost to the Tar Heels for the pool and looking as good as ever. The senior tri-captain, as the long-awaited seniors and their continued growth is necessary for the team to get better. Erndl's growth pains are behind them at this point in time. That seems inevitable with 11 seniors returning to provide solid leadership, it is hoped that most of the Tar Heels' growing pains are behind them at this point in time. That seems inevitable with the experience cast of returnees the Tar Heels feature in 2000-01. With a profound attitude of confidence these teams should do well. These will be more cohesive, hard-working Tar Heel units. Coaches Comfort and Bill Tramel, the chief assistant, have relayed the message as to what they want the Tar Heels to be this year and it appears that the message has been received loud and clear by the 70 swimmers and divers.

Behind the front line leadership swimmers Carolina has some considerable talent on hand this year. Returning lettermen in the men's junior class are Andrew Biedrzycki (Charlottesville, N.C.), Willem Bok (Cleveland, Tenn.), Kevin Erndl (North Augusta, S.C.), Chris Helin (Setauket, N.Y.), Greg Johnson (Rural Hall, N.C.), Kent Johnson (Ooltewah, Tenn.), Sebastien Moity (Charlotte, N.C.) and Justin Rossi (Truckee, Calif.). This group of swimmers showed considerable improvement in their performances at the conference level as sophomores and their continued growth is necessary for the team to get better. Erndl's prowess as the team's premier sprinter has... helped and Helin ranks as Carolina’s most versatile performer in the IM, the backstroke, the breaststroke—wherever the Tar Heels seem to need him. Laughlin and Rossi are key members of the distance corps, Moity has improved significantly as a butterflier and Kert Johnson gets better all the time as a middle distance freestyler.

The men’s sophomore class features the likes of Michael Chenier (Goldsboro, N.C.), Ben Davidson (Columbus, Miss.), Judd Glasco (Richmond, Va.), Drew Hathaway (Matthews, N.C.), Dan Kananen (Kernersville, N.C.), Stephen Krebs (Annandale, Va.), Rob McMillen (Raleigh, N.C.), Stephen Mohr (Mequon, Wis.), Warren Perry (Kinston, N.C.), Sean Quinn (Lancaster, S.C.), P.J. Wallin (Grand Rapids, Mich.) and Hal Wansley (Charlotte, N.C.). This group improved the Tar Heels as a team in a big way last season.

Quinn and Mohr both earned NCAA bids with Quinn taking eighth in the 200-yard breaststroke at the NCAA Championships. He went on to take fifth in the 200-meter breaststroke at the 2000 U.S. Olympic Trials after an outstanding summer of training. Mohr joined Glasco as an outstanding member of the Carolina distance group and Krebs, McMillen and Kananen, the latter a transfer from the University of Louisville, anchor the Carolina diving corps. Krebs was second in the ACC on the three-meter board as a freshman.

Carolina has added an outstanding freshman class that has a load of potential. With graduation losses at a minimum, it is anticipated the Tar Heels can be a significantly better team in the year 2001 if these freshmen come through. The class includes Casey Coble (Ephrata, Pa.), Justin Donato (Coatesville, Pa.), Sinisa Haberle (Durham, N.C.), Justin Lynch (Hempstead, N.Y.), Jimmy Owens (Charlotte, N.C.), Eric Poitras (Regina, Saskatchewan), Yuri Sugiiyama (Ijamsville, Md.), Ian Thomas (Miami, Fla.) and Dan Vick (Durham, N.C.). Poitras is a very strong addition to Coach Nunzio Esposto’s diving corps and both Coble and Sugiiyama did well as participants representing the Carolina Blue and White in this past summer’s Olympic Trials in Indianapolis.

On the women’s side, there is tremendous excitement coming off last year’s ACC championship run. Besides Hathaway the junior class is filled with a slew of talent that has earned several NCAA bids overall the past couple of years. This corps of outstanding swimmers includes Melissa Fiss (Matthews, N.C.), Jennie Gardner (Matthews, N.C.), Sarah Givan (Huntsville, Ala.), Stefanie Rulis (Lexington, Ky.), Heather Stiles (Chapel Hill, N.C.) and Molly Sullivan (Las Vegas, Nev.). Fiss was an honorable mention All-America and the ACC champion in the 200-yard butterfly as a freshman, Rulis came into her own last year as a tremendous relay swimmer and an ACC finalist in the three sprint freestyle events and Sullivan is a two-time NCAA Championships qualifier who won the mile in the ACC meet as a freshman.

The Tar Heels’ sophomore class added enough talent to the mix a year ago to push Carolina over the top in the ACC championship meet. A pair of divers—Ashley Benner of Moultrie, Ga. and Jenny Goodman of Cary, N.C.—improved Carolina dramatically in that area. Swimmers in the sophomore class include Beth Colacurcio (Rocky River, Ohio), Laura Collier (Brentwood, Tenn.), Leigh Sanders (Morgantown, W.Va.), Katie Scoggins (Raleigh, N.C.), Danley Stone (Cary, N.C.), Janna Turner (Raleigh, N.C.), Christy Watkins (Winter Springs, Fla.) and Margie Witter (Madison, Wis.).

Watkins turned in a serendipitous performance at the ACC meet last year, winning individual championships in the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard breaststroke. She posted the second fastest time in UNC history in the 50 and broke Sue Walsh’s 17-year-old ACC record while winning the 100 back. She also went on to earn honorable mention All-America honors and was one of the great Tar Heels stories of last year. Turner was another as she came out of nowhere to post a troika of top four finishes at the ACC Championships. Although she failed to earn an NCAA bid, she did qualify for the 2000 Olympic Trials. Sanders and Collier also were stellar performers at the ACC Championships in helping the Tar Heels achieve their goal of the team championship.

To this mix of talent and experience Carolina has added a cadre of freshman which include five individuals who were Olympic Trials qualifiers in the year 2000. The freshman class include Becky Acker (Richmond, Va.), Gena Bittner (Beaufort, N.C.), Molly Freedman (Washington, D.C.), Amanda Kline (Charlotte, N.C.), Courtney Lewis (Chapel Hill, N.C.), Jessi Perruquet (Danville, Pa.), Whitney Smith (Richmond, Va.), Kelly Weeks (Raleigh, N.C.) and Charlene Wong (Greenville, N.C.). A triumvirate of divers are also joining the Tar Heels in the freshman class. This group includes Lindsay Waddell of Fairfax Station, Va., Elizabeth Misiti of Overland Park, Kansas, and Jennifer Rehm of Chapel Hill, N.C., as Coach Esposto continues to pull out in standing young swimmers from all over the country.

The five swimmers who qualified for Olympic Trials include Acker, Freedman, Perruquet, Smith and Weeks. Freedman earned a finalist position in the 200-meter butterfly. Acker is a top breaststroker and Perruquet, Smith and Weeks were all recruited to shore up the Tar Heels’ freestyle corps.

For both teams, the depth quotient is significantly improved as the Tar Heels approach the 2000-01 season. “One of my great thrills is to see swimmers compete hard in practice,” says Comfort. “I think one of the best team awards we give every year is the most improved swimmer award. It is always fun to see swimmers get better. We certainly has spirited competition for these awards last year and I hope we doing in the coming year as well.”

Comfort knows in the world of college athletics that nothing is a sure thing. But he is cautiously optimistic about what the Tar Heels might be able to achieve this year. “We don’t go into this season with any preconceived notions of how good we are,” says Comfort. “We have to earn everything we get. No one is going to hand us anything this year. We are after all, Carolina and that alone makes us everybody’s biggest rival in the ACC.

“As it is every year, this season will present us with challenges but I think in many ways this will be a very enjoyable team to coach. I certainly hope all of our student-athletes step up and meet the goals they’ve

In the fall of the year 2000, Frank Rockwell Comfort, 55, will begin his 24th year as the head men's and women's swimming coach at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Comfort has led both Tar Heel teams to some of the most glorious moments in Carolina's storied history in the sport.

In 1995, Comfort became the winningest swimming coach in the history of the Atlantic Coast Conference, which dates back to 1953. That season, Comfort won his 17th and 18th conference titles, surpassing the 17 league crowns former North Carolina State coach Don Easterling won from 1970-94. Comfort has continued to add to those impressive statistics. Heading into the 2000-01 campaign he has led Tar Heel teams to 23 ACC championships during his tenure. That figure includes 10 men's championships and 13 women's crowns.

In recent years, Comfort has led the Tar Heel aquatics program to some of its most distinguished moments in the pool. The Carolina women won six successive conference championships from 1991-96 and despite not winning the league crown from 1997-99, the women went on to finish 16th, 12th and 20th, respectively, in the NCAA Championships. The 2000 team returned to the victory stand at the ACC Championships and went on to finish 15th at the NCAA Championships.

The men won six successive ACC titles from 1993-98, the second-longest streak in ACC history and the longest string of ACC men's swimming titles in school history. After a third place finish in 1999, the Tar Heel men's team rebounded to finish second in 2000 at the ACC Championships and reestablished a work ethic that will lead to future success.

The 1995-96 campaign proved to be one of the most outstanding for the Tar Heel aquatics program. Carolina swept the ACC championships again, giving the Tar Heels six straight women's crowns and four successive men's championships. The 1996 season marked the sixth time during Comfort's tenure that Carolina had won the men's and women's ACC championships in the same season. In addition, the women improved five places at the NCAA Championships to rank 18th in 1996, while the men leaped from 32nd to 15th in the national standings. The 15th place was the second best men's finish ever under Comfort's tutelage. The 1996-97 campaign was another banner one for UNC as the Tar Heels claimed their fifth straight men's conference championship and its eighth in 10 years and the women climbed higher in the NCAA standings, finishing 16th. In 1997-98, the Tar Heel program was magnificent once again as Carolina's men won their sixth straight league crown and the women finished 12th at the NCAA Championships, their best national finish in 11 years.

In his 23 years at Carolina, Comfort's teams have been consistent national powers, finishing in the national Top 25 in 21 of those years, including eight seasons in the Top 10. Carolina has also won 13 women's Atlantic Coast Conference championships during his tenure and has never finished lower than second in the league.

For a complete listing of Frank Comfort’s year-by-year record at North Carolina please refer to the chart on page 40.

The overall dual-meet record for the women under his tutelage is 199-39-1, a winning percentage of .835, and the record is 98-14 in Atlantic Coast Conference dual meets, a winning percentage of .875. Four of his teams have gone through seasons unbeaten in dual-meet competition and 11 have posted perfect records in ACC dual-meet action.

Prior to coaching at Carolina, Comfort was the head men's swimming coach at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md., an NCAA Division III swimming power. In nine seasons there, the Blue Jays went 83-26 in dual meet competition, a winning percentage of .761.

Comfort’s overall coaching record, including his tenure at Hopkins and with both the Carolina men and Carolina women is 460-133-1, a winning percentage of .773.

Comfort’s swimmers also do the job in the classroom. The women’s team has earned All-Academic Team honors from the College Swimming Coaches Association of America nine straight years, while the men’s team has been honored with All-Academic status seven times in the last nine years. In addition, Carolina’s swimming and diving program has placed a minimum of 21 student-athletes on the ACC Academic Honor Roll in each of the past 12 school years. Amazingly, 33 Tar Heel swimmers and divers were named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll in 1997-98, a swimming program record. Three more swimmers—Richelle Fox, Ted Brisson and Eric Fehr—were named Academic All-Americans in 1997-98 by GTE and the College Sports Information Directors of America. They joined Matt Branum who had won the award in 1996-97. Brisson went on to be named an academic All-America for the second straight year in 1998-99. Three Tar Heels—Joe Craft in 1995, Ted Brisson in 1999 and Jennifer Strasburger in 2000—won Weaver-James-Corrigan postgraduate scholarships from the ACC.

In the fall semester of 1998 a total of 24 Tar Heel swimmers and divers were named to the Dean’s List at UNC. Fifteen more were named to the Dean’s List in the spring semester of 1999. Fifteen members of the Tar Heel teams entered the fall semester of 1999 with cumulative GPAs of 3.0 or better.

The numbers show that Comfort’s teams do the job consistently well—both in the pool and in the classroom. The North Carolina swimming program under Comfort’s brilliant leadership is certainly something every Carolina fan can speak of proudly.

During his long tenure at the University of North Carolina, Comfort has tutored national champion swimmers like Sue Walsh, Barb Harris, Cami Berizzi, Amy Pless, Bonny Brown, Ann Marshall, Sarah Perroni, Susan O’Brien, Kari Haag, Richelle Fox, Bryan Stuck, Trevor Runberg and Molly Freedman as well as women’s Olympians Sue Walsh, Ann Marshall, Wendy Weinberg and Janis Hape. His top men’s swimmers have included four-time first-team All-America backstroker Eric Ericson, Olympians Chris Stevenson, David Monasterio and Yann deFabrique, John Davis, who won more individual men’s ACC championships than any other swimmer in conference history, Trevor Runberg, a member of the U.S. National Team at the 1998 World Swimming Championships in Perth, Australia, and recent stars like All-Americans and ACC champions Tucker Shade and Ted Brisson.

Because of these accomplishments, Comfort’s stature as a coach has grown in the amateur and international ranks. Last June, Comfort served as the head coach for the U.S. team at the 1999 World Junior Championships in Barcelona. Current Tar Heels Sean Quinn and Judi Glasco were members of that team.

In 1994, he served as the head coach of the United States Women’s Team which competed in the Goodwill Games in St. Petersburg, Russia. That was where he first coached Richelle Fox, who went on to be a magnificent swimmer for UNC from 1996-98. Comfort was also named by U.S. Swimming as the head coach for the 1996-97 U.S. women’s national junior team which competed in the Malmo Grand Prix in Malmo, Sweden, May 17-18, 1997.

Additionally, he has served on coaching staffs at the U.S. Olympic Festival on six occasions—as an assistant coach for the South Team at the 1979 Festival in Colorado Springs, Colo., as the South Team’s head coach on three occasions—in 1982 in Indianapolis, Ind., 1985 in Baton Rouge, La. and 1989 in Oklahoma City, Okla.—and as the North Team’s head coach in 1993 at San Antonio, Texas, and the East Team’s head coach in 1995 at Denver, Colo. In 1987, he served as the sport commissioner for swimming at U.S. Olympic Festival—’87 in Chapel Hill, an appointment from North Carolina Amateur Sports, the local organizing committee for that event.

Comfort has also been head coach for U.S. teams which met the Soviet Union in a dual meet in Knoxville, Tenn. in August of 1982 and which participated in the Hapoel Games in Tel Aviv, Israel in May of 1983. He was an assistant coach for U.S. teams in the August 1981 World University Games in Bucharest, Romania, for the U.S.-West German dual meet in Gainesville, Fla. in July of 1982 and for the August 1990 League of European Nations meet in Rome. His international experience also includes a Czechoslovakian tour in 1976.

Comfort’s name is on the U.S. Swimming International Coaches List, an honor going only to the most elite coaches in the United States. Coach Comfort has been on that list nonstop since 1976.

The Harrisburg, Pa., native was a charter member of the NCAA Women’s Swimming Committee when it was formed in 1981. He served on it for five years and then sat an additional year on the NCAA Swimming Committee in 1986-87 after the men’s and women’s committees had been restructured.

Born December 20, 1945, Comfort is a 1967 alumnus of Syracuse University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in history and physical education. Comfort was a three-time swimming letterman for the Orangemen. He earned a Master of Arts degree in physical education from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1968, coaching the Tar Heel freshman men’s swimming team that year to a 7-0 record.

Prior to returning to Chapel Hill in 1977, Comfort was head men’s swimming coach at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md., for nine years from 1968-77. His teams compiled an 83-26 (.761) dual-meet record there. His 1975 and 1976 teams were NCAA Division III runners-up and the 1977 team won the NCAA Division III championship. He also coached the Homewood Aquatic Club in Baltimore during his Hopkins tenure. One of his best swimmers at Homewood Aquatic Club was Wendy Weinberg, a member of the 1976 U.S. Olympic Team in Montreal where she won the bronze medal in the 800-meter freestyle. She later swam for Comfort at Carolina.

Comfort's swimmers at Hopkins won 12 NCAA individual titles and one NCAA relay team title. He was inducted into the Johns Hopkins Athletic Hall of Fame on September 13, 1997.

Carolina’s first ever full-time swimming coach when he came here in 1977, Comfort was named the youngest recipient ever of the Master Coach Award from the College Swimming Coaches Association of America in 1979. He also received a 25-year service award in 1992 from the CSCAA at the group’s 32nd annual awards banquet in Anaheim, Calif.

Comfort is the son of the late Robert Comfort and the late Frances Comfort. His father was a gifted professor of business administration at Shippensburg University in Pennsylvania. His mother, who just passed away this past summer, was the longtime head librarian at Harrisburg Area Community College. A thoroughly remarkable human being, she was also Carolina’s #1 swimming fan over the past two decades.

Comfort has two rather distinguished and amazing children. His son, Steven, graduated from UNC in 1989, and was a member of Chi Psi fraternity here. After working in advertising sales for Wired Magazine in New York City for several years, Steven moved to San Francisco four years ago and recently retired of the vice president of sales for EGroups. He is now traveling the world and mulling over options to return the business world in 2002.

His daughter, Susan, is a 1993 Phi Beta Kappa UNC alumna who serves as the executive director of the Center for Environmental Citizenship in Washington, D.C. Prior to working for the CEC, Susan graduated from Green Corps and directed the West Coast Neighborhood Green Corps in San Francisco. Calif. She worked in the Roberta Achtenberg campaign for the mayoralty of San Francisco in the fall of 1995, which unfortunately was an unsuccessful venture. In 1996, Susan worked on the campaign staff of Congresswoman
Susan began her environmental activism as a member of Student Environmental Action Committee at UNC-Chapel Hill. Both Comfort children are diehard Carolina fans.

Frank Comfort’s hobbies include playing golf, running, dabbling in the stock market, eating out at a myriad of different Chapel Hill eating establishments and cruising video stores for the latest in film excellence, particularly independent fare.

He also enjoys all college sports and can be found at most all Tar Heel field hockey games as his niece, Ali Stewart, plays for Coach Karen Shelton’s nationally-ranked Carolina squad. Comfort also loves attending Tar Heel basketball games. He also enjoys advancing philanthropic causes in education.

He prides himself as being a social progressive and fiscal conservative and revels in engaging best friend Dave Lohse, UNC’s director of media relations for Olympic Sports, in lively and articulate political banter with Comfort advocating for the right and Lohse taking the more righteous view as the defender for the set upon left.

He has been in an eight-year relationship with his significant other, the lovely and talented Emily DeWire of Eagles Mere, Pa., where she serves of the town council as well as running food services at the Eagles Mere Country Club. The widowed DeWire, age undisclosed, is the mother of two beautiful daughters. Rachael is a Pennsylvania State University graduate. She and her husband Mark Trump live in Eagles Mere, Pa.

Korie is a sophomore at Kings College in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. studying to be a physician assistant. She attended the University of Scranton as a freshman where she was a Dean’s List student studying physical therapy.

Assistant Coach Bill Tramel has done an outstanding job in his six years at North Carolina, coaching 22 All-Americas, 12 ACC champions and four UNC school record holders.

In 2000, Tramel coached Sean Quinn and Dave Slawinski to a 1-2 finish in the 200 breast at the ACC Championships. Quinn set the school record in the event and went on to earn first-team All-America honors. Slawinski also garnered honorable mention All-America.

Tramel joined the Tar Heel staff after a year as an assistant coach at the University of Georgia. While an assistant at Georgia, Tramel helped lead the Bulldogs’ women’s team to a nine-spot improvement at the NCAA level from 15th place in 1994 to sixth place in 1995 as well as to the NCAA women’s championship in the 200-yard freestyle relay.

Tramel also served for two years as the top assistant coach and recruiting coordinator for the University of South Carolina’s men’s swimming program from 1992-94. During Tramel’s stay in Columbia, the Gamecocks moved from a 19th-place finish at the NCAA Championships in 1992 to 15th place in 1994.

Prior to his work at South Carolina, the St. Louis, Mo., native spent two years as an assistant coach for both the men’s and women’s swimming programs at the University of Missouri, his alma mater. A member of the Tiger swimming team, Tramel graduated from Missouri with a Bachelor of Science degree in finance in 1992. As an undergraduate assistant coach at Missouri, Tramel worked specifically with the Tigers’ distance swimmers.

In 1988, Tramel was an assistant age group coach at the Sugar Creek Swim Club in St. Louis, Mo. A year later, he was the assistant age group coach for the St. Louis Aquajets. Tramel is a 1987 graduate of Parkway West Senior High School in St. Louis, Mo. He is also a rabid college basketball fan.
Assistant Swimming Coach and North Carolina Aquatic Club Head Coach
Randy Erlenbach

Simply stated, Randy Erlenbach is one of the most gifted young swimming coaches in the entire nation. Erlenbach is now in his 11th year of working with the swimming program at the University of North Carolina.

The numbers do not lie and Erlenbach’s success as an assistant swimming coach at the University of North Carolina and as the head coach for swimming for the North Carolina Aquatic Club has been quite astounding to say the least.

Recently Erlenbach was renamed by United States Swimming to its International Coaches Listed for 1998, an honor going only to the most elite coaches in the United States. He was originally named to that list in 1997.

Erlenbach, a former four-year swimming letterman at Duke University and a four-year swimmer for two years.

In addition to his current Tar Heels, Erlenbach has coached a treasure trove of age group swimmers at NCAC who have gone on to earn scholarships at several other NCAA Division I institutions.

Erlenbach was named the United States Swimming North Carolina Coach of the Year in both 1995 and 1997 for his work with the North Carolina Aquatic Club.

Erlenbach, 40, is a native of Brookfield, Conn. and a 1981 Duke University graduate. He co-captained the Blue Devil swimming team in 1981.

After graduating from Duke, Erlenbach served as an assistant swimming coach with the Wilton (Conn.) YMCA Wahoo team for a year and then was the head coach of the Durham (N.C.) Aquatic Club for two years.

For five years (1984-89), Erlenbach served as the aquatics supervisor for the city of Lenoir, N.C. He was also the head swimming coach for the Caldwell County Swim Team.

After a year working as a registered representative for Edward D. Jones and Company, he returned to college coaching as an assistant swimming coach at Clemson during the 1990-91 school year. He moved to Chapel Hill to take his current position in the summer of 1991.

Erlenbach, who enjoys biking, hiking and fishing in his spare time, is a bachelor.

Diving Coach and North Carolina Aquatic Club Head Diving Coach Nunzio Esposto

Nunzio Esposto, a 1991 alumnus of the University of North Carolina, begins his third year as the diving coach both for the University team and for the North Carolina Aquatic Club, the U.S. Diving club team based in Chapel Hill.

This past summer, Esposto’s job was elevated to a full-time position in the Carolina athletic department, the first time the Tar Heel program has ever had a full-time diving coach.

Esposto was also thrilled this past summer as divers he coaches at UNC advanced to compete in both the Junior and Summer Nationals in 2000.

Esposto stays active as a competitor as well. He went to his first Masters Nationals Diving competition last summer in Coral Springs, Fla. It was the first time he had competed since his college days at UNC. Esposto earned a first-place medal in the synchronized diving event while competing with David Cotton of California. The two competed in the 35-49 age category as the two divers’ ages are combined to determine which class in which to compete.

On his own, Nunzio earned second place on the one-meter board, second Dick Baddour, a 1966 graduate of the University of North Carolina, was named Director of Athletics on June 25, 1997. In his three years as director, the Tar Heels have undergone a number of changes, yet remain one of the premier athletic programs in the Atlantic Coast Conference and across the nation. Baddour combines an easy-going, friendly and visionary style of management with a love and passion for the University he has served for more than three decades. The Goldsboro, N.C., native heads a program that with 28 varsity sports is the largest in the ACC. Last year, the Tar Heels finished fifth in the nation in the Sears Cup, a competition that ranks Division I universities for their NCAA championship performances. It was the fifth time in the seven-year history of the competition that Carolina finished in the top five. What makes those top five finishes even more impressive is the fact that Carolina’s undergraduate enrollment of just over 15,000 is the 19th-largest among the schools that placed in the Top 25 in the Sears Cup standings last year.

Carolina won six ACC championships in 1999-2000, equalling the top figure in the league, and 21 sports competed in NCAA postseason play. The women’s soccer team won the national championship again and the men’s basketball team won an NCAA Regional and advanced to the Final Four for the second time in his three years as athletic director. Last year, 250 UNC student-athletes completed their studies with a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 or better. There were also 243 Tar Heels on the ACC Honor Roll.

During the past school year, Baddour was a member of the NCAA Championship Cabinet and NCAA Football Issues Committee, oversaw groundbreaking on the indoor football and track facility, worked on plans to include the athletic department in the University’s upcoming capital campaign, and completed searches for new head coaches in men’s basketball and men’s lacrosse.

Baddour has served as athletic director in one of the most dynamic periods in the history of Carolina athletics. He has hired new head coaches in six sports, including football, men’s basketball, men’s golf, women’s tennis, baseball and men’s lacrosse. Just months after taking the job, Baddour had to replace Dean Smith, the winningest coach in basketball history, and Mack Brown, the second-winningest football coach in UNC history. Baddour tabbed Bill Guthridge to follow the legendary Smith, and defensive coordinator Carl Torbush to replace Brown.

Guthridge became the winningest first-year head coach in college basketball history by leading the Tar Heels to 34 wins, an ACC championship and a trip to the NCAA Final Four. He won 80 games in three seasons as head coach and led the Tar Heels back to the Final Four for the second time in 1999-2000 before retiring in late June 2000. On July 11, 2000, Baddour hired former Tar Heel forward and Notre Dame head coach Matt Doherty to lead the UNC basketball program.

Baddour has hired four spring sport head coaches, moves that have revitalized those programs. He hired Mike Fox, a former Tar Heel who played in the 1978 College World Series, as baseball coach; John Inman, 1984 NCAA men’s golf champion and former PGA Tour golfer, as the men’s golf coach; Roland Thornqvist, former National Indoor Singles Champion, as the women’s tennis coach; and this past spring, he hired John Haus to rebuild the men’s lacrosse program. Haus won NCAA championships in 1981 and 1982 as a Tar Heel defensive star and coached Johns Hopkins University to the national semifinals the past two seasons.

Early in his tenure, Baddour established a number of task forces to examine specific functions within the department and guide those administrative units as they prepare for the 21st century. Baddour formed committees to examine recruiting, admissions and academic progress of student-athletes; finances; student-athlete development; and communications.

Baddour continues to direct a vast facilities expansion project that stretches from Kenan Stadium to Finley Golf Course. The McCaskill Soccer Center and the Francis E. Henry Stadium (field hockey and lacrosse) were dedicated two years ago and Finley Golf Course was totally re-designed by noted golf course architect Tom Fazio and re-opened to sparkling reviews in November 1999.

He is in his 34th year of continuous service to the University. Prior to his current position, he spent 11 years under athletic director John Swofford as the executive associate director of athletics. He handled personnel matters, served as NCAA and ACC compliance coordinator, supervised the grant-in-aid program, administered the student-athlete development program and was liaison with the academic support programs.

After graduating from UNC, Baddour spent one year as a cost accountant for Burlington Industries. He then returned to his alma mater in 1967 as assistant dean of men.

In 1971 he became assistant dean of undergraduate admissions. Coordinating freshman admissions took him into every high school in the state.

In 1975, he was awarded a Master of Arts degree in education with a major in student personnel administration and a minor in business administration.

Baddour was then named Assistant Dean at the UNC School of Law from 1983 to 1986. He served as the school’s director of admissions and scholarship programs, head of personnel and supervisor of career planning and placement. He was also in charge of minority recruitment programs.

He became associate athletic director in 1986, was promoted to senior associate director in 1990 and to executive associate in 1995.

A 1962 graduate of Goldsboro High School, Baddour is active in community affairs in Chapel Hill. He is past president of the Public School Foundation, has been co-president of the Ephesus Elementary School PTA and has served on the Chapel Hill-Carrboro School System Effective Schools Committee.

Lynda taught kindergarten and first grade for 17 years. They have two sons and a daughter. Allen graduated from UNC and Carolina law school and practices law in Chapel Hill. He and his wife, Holly, have a 9-month-old son, Henry. David is a UNC graduate and Certified Public Accountant. He is in his second year of law school at UNC and lives with his wife, Carey, in Carrboro. Jennifer is a graduate of UNC Greensboro and earned her master’s from the UNC School of Social Work. She is employed as a social worker in Charlotte.
Senior Associate Athletic Director for Olympic Sports
Dr. Beth Miller

Dr. Beth Miller was promoted in June 1995 to the position of Senior Associate Director of Athletics for Olympic Sports at the University of North Carolina. In her present capacity, Dr. Miller is responsible for supervising the highly-successful 26-sport Olympic sport program at the University. She had handled similar duties within the athletic department under different titles since 1985.

Miller is a 1968 alumna of Appalachian State University with a Bachelor of Science degree in health and physical education. She also earned a Master of Arts degree from Appalachian State in the same fields a year later. She went on to receive a Doctor of Arts degree in physical education at Middle Tennessee State University in 1974.

From 1969-72, Miller served as head women’s volleyball and head women’s basketball coach at Appalachian State while also serving as an instructor in the physical education and health department there.

She came to Carolina in 1974 as an assistant professor of health and physical education and an assistant women’s basketball coach and assistant volleyball coach. She was named head women’s volleyball coach in 1975 and led the Tar Heels to four successive Atlantic Coast Conference titles from 1980-83 and five post-season tournament appearances. She also coached softball at Carolina for a short tenure in the late 1970s.

In 1979, she took on added duties as athletic business manager at Carolina. She retired from coaching volleyball after the 1983 season, but continued to handle all financial affairs for the department through 1987. In 1985, she was also put in charge of the Olympic Sports program.

Miller has spearheaded the Tar Heel Olympic Sports program through its most successful stretch in history. The athletic program has produced a minimum of four Atlantic Coast Conference team championships in each of the past 12 years and has led or tied all ACC schools in title production each of those years.

Carolina has also been amongst the most formidable challengers for the Sears Directors’ Cup as the nation’s all-sports champion. North Carolina finished first in the Sears Directors’ Cup competition in 1993-94 and has been second, sixth, second, tied for second, tied for 17th and fifth in the standings in the last six years, respectively.

Miller is a member of the National Association of Collegiate Women Athletic Administrators and the NCAA Division I-A Women’s Athletic Administrator’s Steering Committee. She also serves on the Executive Committee of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics, the Board of Trustees of the North Carolina Health and Fitness Foundation and the UNC Housing Advisory Board.
The roots of Carolina's proud swimming and diving heritage predate the second World War. On January 23, 1939, Tar Heel swimmers and divers participated in the school's first varsity intercollegiate swimming meet against the University of Virginia.

Later that same year, Bowman Gray Pool opened and it served as home to the Carolina aquatics program until the fall of 1986 when the Tar Heels moved into their current home, the spectacular Maurice J. Koury Natatorium, which is part of the Dean E. Smith Center complex on the UNC campus.

Historic Bowman Gray Pool was actually completed on March 25, 1938, but it was too late for the 1937-38 season, so the first meet in Carolina's new "palace" was not held until almost a year later. The pool was a gift to the University from Mrs. Bowman Gray, Sr., in memory of her two sons, Bowman Gray, Jr., and Gordon Gray. Carolina prepared for its new ventures into the aquatic world by hiring away from Oberlin College one of the top men in collegiate swimming in the 1930s, Richard E. Jamerson. Dr. Jamerson would be the founding father and guiding influence behind the birth of what has become one of the country's top collegiate aquatic programs. The annual awards given to Carolina's most valuable, most outstanding and most improved swimmers bear Jamerson's name as does the timing system at Koury Natatorium.

Since 1938, Carolina's men's teams have posted a cumulative dual-meet record of 469-154, a winning percentage of .753. Carolina teams have captured 14 Southern Conference team championships and 17 Atlantic Coast Conference team titles, while posting a 60-3 Southern Conference dual-meet mark and a 214-50 record in ACC dual meets. On 27 occasions, UNC men's teams have finished among the Top 25 teams at the NCAA Championships. Carolina swimmers have also won four individual NCAA championships in the history of the program.

Although Carolina had women's swimming teams in the early 1970s, the women's swimming and diving program was not elevated to varsity status and taken under the aegis of the intercollegiate athletic program until the 1974-75 school year. In 25 years, Carolina teams have compiled a 210-40-1 dual-meet record, a winning percentage of .839. Carolina has won 10 Atlantic Coast Conference championships under the stewardship of Frank Comfort since 1977. Here, UNC co-captains John Davis and Marc Ferguson receive the trophy from then UNCA D John Swofford.

Jimmy Thomas is still considered by some to be the top swimmer in Southern history. His exploits at Carolina in the late 1940s and early 1950s made him one of five swimmers to win the Patterson Medal as UNC's top senior athlete. also coached the 1945 Tar Heel team by themselves in Jamerson’s absence. Two of Ralph Casey’s teams won Southern Conference titles and another two won Atlantic Coast Conference crowns after UNC became a charter member of the new league in 1953-54. Under Ralph Casey’s direction, the 1955 squad finished fifth in the nation, the 1953 team tied for fifth, the 1957 squad was sixth and the 1949 team took ninth.

In both 1949 and 1957, during Ralph Casey’s tenure, UNC played host to the NCAA Division I Men’s Swimming and Diving Championships at Bowman Gray Pool. The 1949 championships were important because they marked the first time a national championship meet of any kind had been held in the South. A visitor to Bowman Gray Pool today would be hard pressed to imagine how Carolina could possibly have hosted the national championships in that cramped pool.

Pat Earey took over as UNC’s head coach in 1958 and continued the remarkable swimming success in Chapel Hill. His teams won 71.1 percent of their dual meets, and they captured five ACC championships before he retired in 1974.

With the addition of women’s swimming as a varsity sport in 1974-75, the program had split head coaches for the only time in history in that year as Paul Doty, who was then Carolina’s head men’s

The Patterson Medal, established in 1924, is the highest athletic award of The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. It is given annually to the Carolina swimmer athlete who has demonstrated the highest degree of excellence in the swimming and diving programs.

The award was first given in 1924 by university benefactor Dr. Joseph Flanner after the University of North Carolina women’s swimmer Virginia Patterson in memory of her brother, John Durant Patterson. It has since been continued by the Patterson family.

Since the University of North Carolina started a swimming and diving program in 1974, the Carolina swimmers have won 83.6 percent of their dual meets and they captured four ACC championships in that time.

The program’s current head coach, Frank Comfort, was hired away from NCAAD III power Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md., to take command of both the men’s and women’s teams during the summer of 1977. Comfort arrived in Chapel Hill after having just led the Blue Jays to an NCAAD III championship in 1977. It was a smart hire by then Tar Heel athletic director Bill Cobey.

Comfort has helped continue Carolina’s swimming success. His men’s teams have won 72.9 percent of their dual meets and the women’s teams have won 83.6 percent of their dual meets under his tutelage.

The award was at a height in 1977 with the most decorated swimmer in UNC history, Sue Walsh, winning it. Walsh was also a U.S. Olympic Swimming Trials qualifier and was named the ACC Women’s Swimmer of the Year in both 1996 and 1997. Fox finished fourth in the 100-meter butterfly at the 2000 U.S. Olympic Swimming Trials.
in the nation in 20 of the 22 seasons of Comfort's tenure and won 12 of the 21 ACC championships since that meet's inception in 1979. On the other nine occasions, the Tar Heels have been conference runners-up, an amazing string of consistency.

In addition to the cadre of outstanding coaches who have directed Carolina swimming fortunes, the program has also been distinguished by a long string of outstanding swimmers. Six Tar Heel swimmers have been honored as recipients of the Patterson Medal as the school's outstanding senior athlete, an amazing number for the sport given Carolina's rich athletic heritage in so many other sports, particularly men's basketball. Among those six are two of the 10 women who have won the school's highest athletic award.

Jamerson's early teams were full of stars. They included Denny Hammond of Atlanta, Ga., who in 1942 established a national intercollegiate backstroke record; George Whitner of Jacksonville, Fla., who established a national freshman breaststroke mark in 1942; and Buddy Crone of Goldsboro, N.C., who was the head varsity cheerleader at Carolina and the winner of the national junior AAU diving title.

Several Tar Heels in this era won the Southern Conference's Most Valuable Swimmer recognition, including Fleming Stone in 1940, Hammond in 1943, Dick Twining in 1948, Jimmy Thomas in 1949, 1950 and 1951 and Donnie Evans as the co-winner with Thomas in 1951.

Another one of the outstanding early athletes in Carolina swimming history was Norm Sper (1947-50), who both swam and dove while also serving as Carolina's head cheerleader. He is one of only two men in the program's illustrious history to be named a first-team All-America during each of his four years in school, the other being Eric Ericson (1981-84). In 1949, Sper won the National AAU men's platform championship in Los Angeles, Calif.

Sper's feat was equalled in 1950 by one of the greatest of all Carolina athletes, Sara Wakefield. A native of Charlotte, N.C., who grew up in Palm Beach, Fla., Wakefield, then 22, won the 1950 women's one-meter AAU national diving championship in her hometown with a score of 133.90. The win came during Wakefield's senior year at Carolina.

Don Draper served as Wakefield's diving coach at UNC. Other championships won by Wakefield while at Carolina included the Southeastern AAU championship in 1950 in Atlanta and the Florida state meet and national junior championships in 1949.

Jimmy Thomas, the Patterson Medal recipient in 1951, was an amazingly versatile swimmer who won two Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) national individual medley championships and one AAU national backstroke crown during his career. He established 10 American records, four NCAA standards and seven Southern Conference marks while a swimmer at UNC. In 1950, Thomas, considered by many to be the top swimmer in Southern history, became the first swimmer in NCAA annals to be named an All-America in four different individual events in the same year. He completed his career having never lost in conference competition in the 220- and 440-yard freestyle events. At the 1949 NCAA Championships in Bowman Gray Pool, Thomas was the meet's high scorer, with his best finish being a second in the University of North Carolina athletics and the Summer Olympic Games have always been inextricably linked, especially in the sport of swimming. Several former Tar Heel swimmers have either participated in the Games or been chosen as coaches, beginning with the Melbourne Summer Olympic Games in 1956.

That first association between the two entities came in 1956 when Stan Tinkham, who had an outstanding swimming career as a Tar Heel before graduating from UNC in 1952, was chosen to coach the U.S. Olympic women’s swimming team at the Games held in Melbourne, Australia. That American women’s team came home from “Down Under” with one gold, three silver and two bronze medals.

In the 1964 Games at Tokyo, Japan, UNC was represented by a pair of outstanding male swimmers, the incomparable Harold T. "Thompson" Mann, and Phil Riker. Mann captured a gold medal in Tokyo, swimming the leadoff leg on the United States victorious 400-meter medley relay team. In swimming that leadoff leg, Mann became the first person ever to swim the 100-meter backstroke in less than a minute, clocking a 59.80 split. Meanwhile, Riker swam in the 200-meter butterfly for the American squad in Tokyo.

- Ann Marshall, who graduated from Carolina in 1980, was the first female Carolina swimmer to make an Olympic Team. As a 14-year-old from Florida, Marshall made the U.S. team for the 1972 Games in Munich, Germany. She was the fourth-place medalist in the 200-meter freestyle at those Games, just missing a bronze medal.
- Two Tar Heel greats were members of the United States women’s team at the 1976 Olympic Games in Montreal, Quebec, Canada. Both made the Olympic Team after graduating from college that fall: Ann Marshall, who was one of two medalists in the 800-meter freestyle, and Susan O’Brien, who captured a gold medal in the 100-meter backstroke events at the NCAA Championships four straight years from 1985-88.

- In 1980, the United States Olympic team at Moscow in the second Olympic Games in the 100-yard butterfly and 200-yard medley relay. However, the invasion of Afghanistan that July. Meanwhile, the U.S. team for the 1972 Games in Munich, Germany. She was the fourth-place medalist in the 200-meter freestyle at those Games, just missing a bronze medal.

The Tar Heel program was honored to have two swimmers participate in summer Olympic Games at Barcelona in 1992. Both made the Olympic Team after winning NCAA titles in the 100- and 200-yard backstroke events at the NCAA Championships at Carolina’s own Bowman Gray Pool; Harrison Merrill, the 1965 Patterson Medal recipient who was a three-time All-America and the winner of seven individual ACC titles; and 1966 NCAA 150-yard butterfly titlist Phil Riker, who was also a member of the 1964 U.S. Olympic Team.

Other top men’s swimmers have included 1955 NCAA 200-yard butterfly champion Phil Drake; Charlie Krepp, who won NCAA titles in the 100- and 200-yard backstrokes while swimming in the 1957 NCAA Championships at Carolina’s own Bowman Gray Pool; Harrison Merrill, the 1965 Patterson Medal recipient who was a three-time All-America and the winner of seven individual ACC titles; and 1966 NCAA 100-yard butterfly titlist Phil Riker, who was also a member of the 1964 U.S. Olympic Team.

Arguably the finest men’s swimmer in Carolina history was Thompson Mann. A three-time All-America, Mann was a 1964 Olympic Games gold medalist as the leadoff swimmer on the United States’ victorious 4x100-meter medley relay squad. He set a world record at the Games in the 100-meter backstroke during that race and was the first person to ever eclipse one minute at University of North Carolina swimmers have accounted for 18 individual national collegiate championships and one relay title during the program’s storied 61-year history from 1938-39 through 1999-00.

Men’s swimmers have been responsible for four of those titles and the women have won 14 individual titles and one relay crown.

The first championship came in 1955 when Phil Drake captured the 200-yard NCAA butterfly crown in 2:13.70. Two years later, in 1957, Charlie Krepp, swimming in the NCAA Championships in his home facility at Bowman Gray Pool, won both the 100- and 200-yard backstroke titles in 58.10 and 2:07.80, respectively. In 1966, Phil Riker won Carolina’s most recent men’s NCAA championship, capturing the 100-yard butterfly in a time of 51.19.

Carolina’s first women’s championships came under the aegis of the now-defunct Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW), which ran women’s athletics before the NCAA took over sponsorship of women’s championships in 1981-82. In 1976, Ann Marshall won AIAW national titles in the 200-yard freestyle and 200-yard backstroke. Historical records do not have times listed for either of those victories. A year later in 1977, Bonny Brown won the AIAW title in the 100-yard backstroke.

Carolina’s NCAA Champions

University of North Carolina swimmers have accounted for 18 individual national collegiate championships and one relay title during the program’s storied 61-year history from 1938-39 through 1999-00.

In 1979, Sue Walsh won national titles in the 50-yard butterfly (55.60). That same year, Harris excelled again, placing as high as 14th in the 400-meter freestyle in ‘92, and then went on to win three medals for the French in the 1993 World University Games in Buffalo, N.Y. and two medals for France at the 1995 World University Games in Fukuoka, Japan. Two 1997 alumni, Steve Bonack and Jeff Weiss, added their names to the list of great swimmers at Carolina. Both were All-Americas breaststrokers at UNC. Trevor Runberg, ’98, was a gifted UNC swimmer for four years, being named ACC Co-Swimmer of the Year in 1996 and earning a spot on the U.S. World Championships Team in 1996. Last season’s top seniors included Tucker Shade, a three-time ACC champion in the 100-yard butterfly and four-time All-America, and Ted Brisson, one-time ACC record holder in the 100-yard backstroke and two-time GTE Academic All-America.

There have also been many talented women’s swimmers at Carolina. In 1976, Ann Marshall, the first female swimmer to receive an athletic scholarship at UNC, captured AIAW national championships in the 200-yard backstroke and 200-yard freestyle. Marshall, a 1972 Olympian as a 14-year-old, was followed to campus by Bonny Brown, who in 1980 became the first... female recipient of the Patterson Medal as UNC's outstanding senior athlete. Brown had been a gold medalist at the 1975 Pan American Games in Mexico City and, a year later, she established the American record in the 100-meter freestyle. In 1977, she won the AIAW national championship in the 100-yard individual medley, and later that summer she was a gold medalist at the World University Games. Hot on the heels of Brown came the incomparable Sue Walsh. North Carolina's outstanding swimming figure of all time, Walsh won 10 national collegiate individual championships and was on one AIAW national champion relay squad. She was named the Most Valuable Swimmer at the ACC Championships three times and was an American record holder in the 50- and 100-yard backstrokes and the 100-meter backstroke. Walsh won the Patterson Medal in 1984 and, in 1983, she was named the North Carolina Athlete-of-the-Year by the Greensboro News & Record. Walsh was joined on the United States' 1982 World Swimming Championships and 1983 Pan American Games teams by Tar Heel teammates Polly Winde, an individual medleyist and breaststroker extraordinare, who also had a standout Carolina career. Winde finished second in the 400-yard individual medley at the 1984 NCAA's and is now married to former Tar Heel baseball star B.J. Surhoff, a standout for the Baltimore Orioles. Winde was recently inducted into the Maryland Swimming Hall of Fame, which also includes UNC swimmer Wendy Weinberg and Tar Heel head coach Frank Comfort.

Other outstanding swimmers of the 1980s included Barb Harris, the 1982 NCAA champion in the 50-yard butterfly, and Amy Pless and Cami Berizzi, who combined with Walsh and Harris to win the AIAW national championship in the 200-yard medley relay in 1981. Several Tar Heel women have been named the Most Valuable Swimmer at the ACC Championships, including Cindy Shirey in 1979, Gayle Hegel in 1980, Sue Walsh in 1981, 1983 and 1984, Susan O'Brien in 1985 and 1988, Melissa Douse in 1992, Kari Haag in 1993, Chrissy Miller in 1996 and 1998 and Richelle Fox in 1997. Another top swimmer for Carolina was Melanie Buddemeyer, a two-time first-team All-America. Buddemeyer is one of only three women's swimmers in ACC history to sweep an individual event all four years of her eligibility. Buddemeyer accomplished the feat in two events, winning Atlantic Coast Conference titles in both the 100- and 200-yard butterfly in 1985, 1986, 1987 and 1989. Also duplicating the feat were Walsh in the 100- and 200-yard backstrokes (1981-83) and Polly Winde in the 400-yard individual medley (1983-86). A complete list of the great Carolina swimmers would also have to include Sarah Perroni, who graduated from UNC in 1993. A three-time first-team All-America, Perroni finished fourth in the 50-yard freestyle at the 1993 NCAA Championships, won a pair of medals at the 1993 World University Games and participated on the American Team at the 1993 Pan Pacific Championships in Kobe, Japan. She also swam in the Short Course World Championships in December of 1993 in Mallorca, Spain and was a member of the U.S. Swimming Resident National Team training in Colorado Springs, Colo. for two years.

Another tremendous freestyler was Kari Haag, who graduated from Carolina in 1996. Haag was the ACC Swimmer of the Year in both 1995 and 1996 and she came extremely close to winning UNC's first national title in 11 years in 1995 when she finished second at NCAA's in the 200-yard freestyle. Richelle Fox was the 1997 and 1998 ACC Women's Swimmer of the Year. She had six top six finishes at the 1997 and 1998 NCAA meets, including a a pair of second-place finishes in the 100-yard butterfly. A top contender to earn a spot on the 2000 Olympic Team, Fox was recently named to the United States squad for the 1999 Pan Pacific Championships. She was joined on that team which competed in Sydney Australia last summer by Haag and by Molly Freedman, who will be a freshman at Carolina in the fall of 2000.

UNC swimmers have also been fixtures in international and Olympic-related competitions. That has especially been true over the past two decades. Starting with Brown's appearance in the 1977 World University Games, other Tar Heels invited to that biannual competition have been Harris and Hegel in 1979; Walsh in 1981 at Bucharest, Romania; Ericson and Walsh in 1983 at Edmonton, Canada; Buddemeyer in 1985 at Kobe, Japan; Buddemeyer and O'Brien in 1987 at Zagreb, Yugoslavia; Perroni, Hamrick, deFabrique and Carrie Szulc in 1993 at Buffalo, N.Y.; and deFabrique, Haag and Tar Heel junior Trevor Runberg in 1995 at Fukuoka, Japan. Haag won a gold medal at the '95 Games as a member of the U.S.'s 800-meter freestyle relay squad, while deFabrique won three medals at the 1995 World University Games and two more medals at the 1995 WUG. Buddemeyer and O'Brien also swam together at Brisbane, Australia in August 1987 at the Pan Pacific Games.

Also in August 1987, UNC also had a participant in the Pan American Games in Indianapolis in the person of Tony Monasterio, representing his native Puerto Rico. Tony was followed to the same competition four years later by his younger brother David, who swam splendidly in the 1991 event at Havana, Cuba.

In addition, countless University of North Carolina swimmers have participated in U.S. Olympic Festivals over the past 20 years and Head Coach Frank Comfort and former assistant coach Rich DeSelm have served on the coaching staffs there several times.

The rich tradition of the aquatics program at North Carolina shows no signs of diminishing anytime in the near future. Carolina won another ACC championship in women's swimming last year to get the process going. Look for more accolades for Tar Heel swimmers during the next Millennium as well.

Notes About Carolina Swimming Team Awards:
The Most Valuable, Most Outstanding and Most Improved Awards for both the men's and women's teams are all named for Richard E. Jamerson, who founded the University of North Carolina swimming program in 1938-39. The Hill Carrow Spirit Award is presented annually by former Tar Heel swimmer Hill Carrow, Class of 1977, to the swimmer on each team who exhibits the most school spirit. The Bruce Webster Memorial Award is presented annually to the most dedicated member of the men's team. The award honors former Tar Heel swimmer Bruce Webster, Class of 1981, who died of melanoma in 1983. The Athletic Director's Scholar-Athlete Awards, begun in 1986, are presented annually by UNC Athletic Director John Swofford to the top student-athlete in each of UNC's 28 varsity sports. The Class of 1989 Award is given each year to the most dedicated swimmer on the women's team. The Class of 1940 Blue Dolphin Award is given in honor of the senior class which founded UNC's swimming program in 1938-39 and is awarded to an individual who has made exceptional overall contributions to the Carolina swimming program. The Osterneck Family Award is given annually by Rhoda Osterneck of Durham, N.C., to the swimming program's unsung heroes. It is dedicated in the loving memory of Bob Osterneck, Rhoda's husband, who passed away in June 1991 from a heart attack, and in her late mother, Minnie Pitkus. The members of the Osterneck family have always been amongst the strongest supporters of the UNC swimming program.

Note: The table above lists the times and competitors for various swimming events in the 2000-01 University of North Carolina Swimming & Diving Media Guide.
The provided text does not contain any tables or figures. It appears to be a textual description of swimming and diving events and records, likely from an academic or competitive context. The text includes names, times, and places, indicating various achievements in swimming and diving across different events, schools, and years. The text is dense and contains specific details about performances in swimming events such as freestyle, medley, and relay races, with mentions of qualifying standards and records for the 2000-01 school year.

*All qualifying standards listed on these two pages are for the 2000-01 school year. The NCAA Division I qualifying times listed refer both to A Standards (automatic qualification) and B Standards (a automatic plus a discretionary cut) for swimmers in 25-yard courses. Different qualifying times exist for swims in 25- and 50-meter courses. NCAA Division I Qualifying Standards to qualify for NCAA zone diving meets are 290 points (dual meet), 465 points (championship meet) and 300 points (6 options format) for one-meter diving 310 points (dual meet) and 480 points (championship meet) for three-meter diving and 430 points for 10 dives and 618 points for 14 dives on platform.

Swimmers and divers at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill enjoy one tremendous advantage in achieving excellence in their chosen sport. The facility the University has built for the sport on the Carolina campus is one of the best structures in the Atlantic Coast Conference and amongst the top 10 competition pools in the United States, ranking among the elite facilities in Indianapolis, Minnesota, Texas and Southern California.

After 48 seasons of intercollegiate swimming and diving competition in historic Bowman Gray Pool, the Tar Heel swimming and diving teams moved into their new digs in October 1986 with the opening of the Maurice J. Koury Natatorium as part of the Dean Edwards Smith Center complex at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Now in its 14th year of use, Koury Natatorium has gained a reputation as one of the finest pools in the nation and one of the best on the East Coast. Several top-flight competitions have already been staged here, with the showcase event having been United States Swimming’s Senior Short Course National Championships, March 21-25, 1989.

Koury Natatorium served as the host of the U.S. Master’s Swimming Short Course National Championships in May of 1992. That meet drew thousands of master’s level swimmers from all over the nation to beautiful Chapel Hill.

Other top meets held at Koury Natatorium include the 1988 and 1991 NCAA Southeast Regional Diving Championships, North Carolina High School Athletic Association men’s and women’s championship meets on an annual basis and a trio of North Carolina-Virginia all-star meets. U.S. Swimming also held its annual elite training camp here shortly after the pool’s opening from December 27, 1986 to January 3, 1987.

Another major highlight in Koury’s brief history was the swimming and water polo competition at U.S. Olympic Festival ’87, an event which was probably the most successful U.S. Olympic Festival ever staged by the U.S. Olympic Committee. Swimming competition in July 1987 played to overflow crowds all three nights and the water polo competition also set Festival attendance standards for that sport. The crowds for swimming were so large that temporary bleachers had to be set up on the pool deck to accommodate all the spectators.

The natatorium was officially dedicated in ceremonies on October 2, 1987, a gala affair which drew a capacity crowd of UNC athletic partisans, swimming enthusiasts and statewide dignitaries, including North Carolina’s Lieutenant Governor, Robert Jordan, who gave the official address dedicating the facility.

However, the first actual competition in the facility took place almost a year before the Dedication Day on October 31, 1986 when UNC hosted the Tar Heel Invitational. The first dual meet competition was on November 10, 1986 when UNC’s women defeated N.C. State, 171-96.

The pool itself measures 50 meters in length by 25 yards in width. There are two moveable bulkheads which can configure the dimensions of the pool in many ways. At its most shallow point, the pool measures seven feet in depth, and the pool is 18 feet at its deepest point. The pool also features continuous flow gutters and has one of the most advanced lighting systems of any swimming facility in the world. The gallery area provides seating for approximately 2,000 fans.

The acoustical system at the natatorium is spectacular. The gallery area is served by six speakers and six more serve the pool deck, which underwent an elaborate tiling project immediately after the Olympic Festival in 1987. In excess of 2,300 individual acoustical tiles were installed in the ceiling.

The pool, which features underwater speakers and observation booths, holds one million gallons of water, quadrupling the water capacity of Bowman Gray Pool, which held about 250,000 gallons. There are no water jets in the pool, eliminating the problems caused by water currents. The natatorium also features a blower system and sliding windows for better ventilation during the summer.

Each Carolina team has a locker room which affords two lockers for each team member. A team meeting room with a 75-person capacity adjoins the deck and is named for former UNC swimming coach Ralph Casey, who passed away in 1986. There is also a separate locker room for the UNC coaches and locker room facilities for visiting teams, recreational swimming and officials.

The locker rooms and meeting room are located directly across the hall from the athletic training room of the Smith Center, which is under the direction of Marc Davis, who serves as the head trainer for the UNC swimming program.

The natatorium also contains outstanding facilities for diving with two one-meter boards and two three-meter boards and a separate scoreboard and message board for diving and high chairs used by judges in major meets.

There is a second scoreboard and message board on the swimming end of the facility. Colorado Timing is responsible for the natatorium’s elaborate scoring and timing system. The system is named for the late Dick Jamerson, founder of the UNC swimming program in 1939 and its first head coach. The system was dedicated December 2, 1986 at a dual meet against Duke University with Coach Jamerson’s widow, the lovely Anna Jamerson, in attendance for the ceremonies.

Also located on the deck level adjacent to the pool are the swimming offices, with a reception area and a managers’ workroom and separate offices for coaches Frank Comfort, Randy Erlenbach, Nunzio Esposto and Bill Tramel.

The offices of the North Carolina Aquatic Club are also located on the Koury pool deck. NCAC is the United States Swimming swim club based in Chapel Hill.

All these special facets help make Koury Natatorium a showpiece of the Carolina athletic program and one of the nation’s finest aquatic facilities while at the same time giving each and every Carolina swimmer and diver the resources to achieve his or her maximum potential. Please make it a point to feel the Maurice J. Koury Natatorium magic firsthand.
The 1999-2000 academic year at the University of North Carolina proved to be one of excellence on the field of play and superb accomplishment in the world of academics.

A total of 245 student-athletes earned membership on the 1999-2000 Atlantic Coast Conference Academic Honor Roll.

At the forefront of this accomplishment was the University of North Carolina swimming and diving program, one of the top academic performing groups amongst the 28 varsity sports teams on the Carolina campus. That was proven to be true in a resounding fashion once again during the 1999-2000 school year.

The men’s and women’s teams were accorded Academic All-America Team Awards by the College Swimming Coaches Association of America (CSCAA) during both the winter and spring terms of 1999-2000.

During the spring semester of the year 2000 the men’s team posted a cumulative grade point average of 2.895 with 23 of the 34 men on the team posting a 3.0 average or above. Meanwhile, in the past spring semester the women excelled at an amazing clip, posting a team GPA of 3.184 with 21 of 28 women achieving a 3.0 or above.

Those are not unusual results. Last year, the pattern was the same. During the fall semester of 1998, the men posted a 2.901 team grade point average to become one of 33 NCAA Division I teams to earn CSCAA All-Academic Team honors for that semester. In the spring, the men performed at a 2.8 level to again earn CSCAA Team Academic All-America accolades.

Carolina’s men’s team has earned All-Academic honors from the CSCAA in 16 of the past 20 graded semesters heading into the fall of 2000.

The women also excelled in 1998-99. In the fall, the team was at 3.009 to be one of 58 NCAA Division I programs earning All-Academic Team honors. In the spring of 1999, the women checked in at 2.9.

Thus, during both semesters, the women’s team garnered CSCAA Team All-America honors, the ninth straight year the Tar Heel women have been CSCAA Academic All-Americans in both semesters of the school year. With last year’s accomplishments, the amazing run continued. It has now reached 20 semesters in a row, proving that the UNC women’s team truly recruits student-athletes.

As evidenced by the CSCAA team awards, Carolina swimmers have always been at the forefront of academic success within the UNC athletic program. To qualify for the CSCAA honor teams, each Carolina squad was required to maintain a grade point average of at least 2.750 and meet other procedural requirements to be considered at the top of all swimming programs nationwide on an academic basis.

Carolina swimmers have also recently earned great respect nationally in the Academic All-America program run by GTE and chosen by the College Sports Information Directors of America.

One of Carolina’s most gifted swimmers ever, Sue Walsh, was named to the GTE/College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) At-Large Academic All-America Teams in both 1983 and 1984. She was named to the second team in 1983 and was voted membership on the first team in 1984 when she was the third highest vote getter on the entire squad.

Senior Richelle Fox was named to the first team of the 1998 GTE Women’s University Fall-Winter Academic All-America Team, one of 15 student-athletes so honored. She was named with a GPA of 3.59. On the men’s side, junior Ted Brisson was named to the second team and senior Eric Fehr to the third team of the 1998 GTE Academic All-America University Division Fall/Winter At-Large Team for men. Brisson was one of 16 student-athletes on the second team with his 3.82 GPA and Fehr was one of 16 on the third team with his 3.42 GPA.

In 1998-99, Ted Brisson repeated as a member of the GTE Academic All-America University Division Fall/Winter At-Large Team, earning second-team honors for the second successive year.

Student-athletes representing all 309 NCAA Division I institutions were eligible for these at-large teams which included representatives in eight different sports—soccer, cross country, field hockey, swimming, diving, gymnastics, rifle, skiing and fencing.

Over the past 14 years in particular since the construction of the Student-Athlete Development Center at UNC, Carolina swimmers as well as all Tar Heel athletes in general have really come into their own in the classroom.

“Our numbers on the ACC Academic Honor Roll have almost tripled in the past 14 years,” says Janice Hilliard, Associate Athletic Director and Director of the Academic Support Program at the University of North Carolina. “We consistently place upwards of 150 student-athletes on the Dean’s List each semester. But I think the real measurement is that we’ve had a graduation rate percentage for our student-athletes that’s about the same as the student body as a whole.”

In 1999-2000, Carolina place 245 student-athletes on the Atlantic Coast Conference Academic Honor Roll for maintaining at least a 3.30 grade point average for the entire school year while taking at least 12 credit hours each semester. Out of that figure of 245 individuals, 38 were either swimmers or divers with 20 men and 18 women being named to the ACC Honor Roll.

That number were almost identical to what UNC produced in 1998-99, Carolina placed 236 student-athletes on the Atlantic Coast Conference Academic Honor Roll for maintaining at least a 3.0 grade point average for the entire school year while...
Jen Strasburger was not only a spirited swimmer during her time at Carolina but also a talented scholar. She won a Weaver-James-Corrigan post-graduate scholarship from the ACC in 2000 and was named All-Academic by the College Swimming Coaches Association.

The UNC record for most representatives on the ACC Academic Honor Roll was 271 student-athletes in 1997-98. The 33 representatives of the swimming team on the 1997-98 ACC Academic Honor Roll was the most in any year for the swimming program specifically, but that mark was shattered by the 1999-2000 squads which placed an astounding 38 performers on the ACC Honor Roll combined.

Hilliard is proud of the fact Carolina’s program is considered a role model for all of college athletics. But she insists her staff keep the goals rather simple. “We’re here for the struggling student, the mediocre student and the good student,” Hilliard says. “To say we’re here to keep people eligible is not accurate. We’re not satisfied with mediocrity. We want to help make them the best they can be.”

Under Hilliard’s direction each varsity sport at UNC is assigned its own academic counselor designated to work with that particular team.

The counselor assigned to the swimming program is Marisa Marucci, who will be in her first year as the team’s academic adviser. She just joined the academic staff this past summer and is thrilled to be working with a program of excellence in athletic like that of Carolina swimming.

The 1999-2000 school year was also the 13th year in a row that Carolina’s swimming and diving contingent placed at least 21 members on the ACC Honor Roll. Beginning with the 1986-87 school year and continuing through last year, UNC swimming has placed 21, 21, 22, 23, 24, 24, 25, 25, 27, 33, 30 and 38 individuals on the ACC Honor Roll over the past 13 school years. That is a continuous record of excellence that is something the student-athletes can truly take pride in.

Tar Heel swimmers have also been represented in big numbers on the Dean’s List at Carolina. In the fall semester of 1998, 12 men and 12 women were named to the Dean’s List from the swimming and diving teams. In the spring semester of 1999, the Dean’s List included five men’s swimmers and 10 women’s swimmers.

Carolina divers Joe Craft and Alison Conrad brought further honor to the Tar Heel swimming program in 1994-95. Craft was one of 13 Atlantic Coast Conference student-athletes to win a Weaver-James Postgraduate Scholarship. UNC’s 1999-2000 senior co-captain Jennifer Strasburger was also one of the Weaver-James Postgraduate Scholarship’s last year. Her credentials for the award were outstanding and she well represented both the University and her program in garnering that honor.

Meanwhile, diver extraordinaire Alison Conrad was named UNC’s female recipient of the Atlantic Coast Conference Senior Scholarship Award. Conrad joined Bob Bilbro in 1962, Peter Barnes in 1974, Hill Carrow in 1977, Bruce Webster in 1981 and Sue Walsh in 1984 as Carolina swimmers or divers to earn that prestigious honor from the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Senior Ted Brisson accomplished both feats for the Tar Heel men’s swimming team in 1999. He won a Weaver-James-Corrigan Postgraduate Scholarship from the ACC to study at the UNC School of Medicine beginning in the fall of 1999. He also was named UNC’s male recipient of the ACC Senior Scholarship Award.

The College Swimming Coaches Association of America also sponsors its own Academic All-America Teams.

A swimmer or diver must have a 3.5 GPA or above for that academic year and have qualified for the NCAA Championships in that year to be eligible for the CSCAA award.

In 1983-84, three Tar Heels were named to the CSCAA Academic All-America Individual team—senior Sue Walsh and freshman Martha McCann from the women’s team and sophomore Dirk Marshall from the men’s team.

McCann won those same honors again as a senior in 1986-87 when she was honored for her cumulative 3.54 grade point average at UNC.

In addition, four Carolina swimmers were named winners of CSCAA individual academic awards for the 1996-97 school year. Ted Brisson, who had a 3.886 in chemistry and economics, Micah Copeland, who had a 3.680 in elementary education, Eric Fehr, who had a 3.530 in biology and public policy analysis and Richelle Fox, who had a 3.513 in exercise science, were all named College Swimming Coaches Association of America Academic All-Americans.

Three more Tar Heel swimmers were named winners of the CSCAA Academic All-America Individual Awards for the 1997-98 school year. Senior Richelle Fox and senior Tracey Barrett were named to the women’s team, while junior Ted Brisson was named to the men’s team. Fox posted a 3.838 in physical education last year, while Barrett had a 3.697 in biology. Brisson accumulated a 3.637 GPA in chemistry during the course of the 1997-98 school year.

In 1998-99, senior Ted Brisson and sophomore Ethan Hall were named to the CSCAA individual men’s All-America squad, while junior Jen Strasburger was the sole Tar Heel on the women’s team. In 1999-2000, three more UNC swimmers were named to the CSCAA’s All-Academic Team. These were also senior women from the 2000 team—Ilana Kavadlo, Kelly McLaughlin and Jennifer Strasburger.

All three of those gifted Tar Heel swimmers achieved a minimum of a 3.5 grade point average for the entirety of the 1999-2000 school year while also qualifying for the 2000 NCAA Women’s Swimming Championships.
As the nation’s first state university, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill was chartered in 1789. The cornerstone of its first building, Old East, was laid in 1793 and opened to students in 1795. Carolina was the only public university to award degrees to students in the 18th century.

Carolina’s 13 colleges and schools offer programs in more than 100 fields leading to 95 bachelor’s, 169 master’s and 109 doctoral degrees, as well as professional degrees in dentistry, medicine, pharmacy, law and library science. Five health-affairs schools, which help comprise one of the most complete academic medical centers in the country, are well-integrated with a prestigious liberal arts program.

*Among the most comprehensive universities in the United States, UNC belongs to the select group of 62 research campuses forming the Association of American Universities.

*The 729-acre central campus, once called “The Noble Grove,” is among the nation’s most beautiful. It includes the two oldest state university buildings, Old East and Person Hall. Old East, a residence hall, and Playmakers Theatre, an 1852 Greek-revival building, are National Historic Landmarks.

Recent National Rankings

*In U.S. News & World Report magazine’s “America’s Best Colleges” issue:

Carolina was third among public universities and tied for 25th among all public and private universities, up from 27th the previous year and the school’s highest spot since 1991.

The university was first in best value among national universities based on “sticker price” and 24th for “discount price.”

The Kenan-Flagler Business School’s undergraduate program tied for fifth overall; its general management program ranked fourth.

*In Kaplan/Newsweek magazine’s “How to Get into College” guide:

Carolina was one of just 12 U.S. campuses called “first-rate schools at bargain prices.”

Editors cited some of the university’s “pluses” as strong academics, high-quality facilities, a college-friendly town, a beautiful campus and powerhouse sports.

*According to Money magazine’s “Your Best College Buys Now” guide:

Carolina was the sixth-best buy based on out-of-state tuition for the second consecutive year and the second-best value in the Southeast.

In discounted tuition—the amount spent after financial aid is deducted from the list price for tuition and fees—Carolina ranked 15th nationwide.

*According to the 1996 The Princeton Review/Time magazine’s “The Best College for You and How to Get In” guide, Carolina had one of the top 10 sociology programs in the country.

*Carolina was the top-scoring public university in the country for academic quality and financial value in the March 1997 issue of Kiplinger’s Personal Finance Magazine.

The school’s family-medicine program was ranked third.

Its rural-medicine program tied for fourth place with Michigan State University.

Ratings and Achievements

*Among 40 members of the American Association of Universities—including Duke, Carnegie-Mellon and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology—Carolina ranked second in 1995-96 in the percentage of bachelor’s degrees awarded to women (60.4 percent) and fourth in the percentage awarded to blacks (8.9 percent). For master’s programs, UNC ranked second in degrees awarded to women (59.3 percent) and third in degrees awarded to blacks (6.4 percent). For doctoral programs, Carolina ranked second in degrees awarded to women (48.2 percent) and 22nd in degrees awarded to blacks (2.2 percent).

*The University’s $440 million Bicentennial Campaign for Carolina, held from 1989 through 1995, was the largest fund-raising campaign in the university’s history and the fourth-largest campaign ever completed at a public university.

*1996 proved to be the best fund-raising year yet for Carolina. Private gifts and grants totaled $94.6 million. Individuals, corporations and foundations supported a range of priorities, including support for students and faculty and enhancements for library collections and buildings.

*The School of Information and Library Science’s master’s program tied for second in the nation in the most recent reputation study reported in the professional journal Library Quarterly.

*The School of Journalism and Mass Communication is “arguably the best all-around program in the country,” according to a team from the Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communications. The team evaluated UNC’s undergraduate and professional master’s programs.

*Deans and researchers ranked the UNC School of Nursing ninth among the best U.S. nursing programs in a study published in a 1995 issue of Nurse Educator magazine.

Students

*Some 24,141 students coming from all 100 North Carolina counties, the other 49 states and more than 100 countries studied at UNC in 1996-97. About 64 percent are enrolled as undergraduates, 28 percent in graduate programs, and 8 percent in professional programs.

*Nearly 69 percent of incoming freshmen... graduated in the top 10th of their high-school classes.
*More than 30 percent of incoming freshmen scored 1,300 or higher on their SATs. More than 57 percent scored 1,200 or above. The average SAT score among instate incoming freshmen was 1,222; the average among out-of-state students was 1,289.
*Sixty-two percent of the 3,208 freshmen who enrolled in 1992 graduated after four years, a rate significantly higher than the 35-percent average among colleges in the Association of American Universities. For the class starting in 1991, Carolina’s five-year graduation rate of nearly 82 percent was 20 points above the AAU average.

*The Journal of Blacks in Higher Education reported in 1996 that Carolina ranked third among all state-supported universities nationwide in its six-year graduation rate, 64 percent, for the blacks who entered the university between 1986 and 1989. In 1995, for the first time ever, Carolina’s freshman retention rate of 94.4 percent was the same for white and black students, according to the Office of Institutional Research. The freshman retention rate refers to the percentage of freshmen who return to campus for their sophomore year.

*Ten Carolina students have been selected as Rhodes Scholars since 1980. Carolina has been represented by 33 Rhodes Scholars since the program began in 1902. UNC, the alma mater of the first black woman recipient, has been one of the nation’s most successful public universities in the Rhodes competition.

*Ninety-three percent of Carolina’s 1996 graduating seniors said they were satisfied with the quality of the education they received at Chapel Hill, with 43.5 percent saying they were very satisfied. When surveyed upon their admission to Carolina in 1992, 88 percent of the group said that the university’s academic reputation was a “very positive” factor in their decision to apply to Carolina.

*Sixty-two percent of Carolina’s graduate students remain in North Carolina five years after graduation.
*Thirty-five percent of its out-of-state graduate students still live in North Carolina five years after graduation and 25 percent after 10 years.
*More than 210,224 living alumni reside in all 50 states and 129 foreign countries.

Faculty
*Carolina’s full-time faculty of 2,417 includes professors who hold or have held major positions in virtually every national scholarly or professional association. Overall, more than 90 percent of Carolina’s faculty members have earned their field’s highest degree.
*Many faculty members have been elected to some of the nation’s most prestigious academic organizations, including 10 current members of the National Academy of Sciences, 18 of the academy’s Institute of Medicine, six of the National Academy of Engineering and 25 of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.
*Carolina’s average student-teacher ratio is 14 to one. A fall 1992 study found that only 5.4 percent of 2,083 undergraduate class sections contained 100 or more students; 7.8 percent contained 50 to 99 students. Estimated average enrollment is 40 for freshman lecture classes, 30 for upper division lecture courses.
*Dr. Darryl Gless, professor of English, was appointed by President Bill Clinton to serve on the National Council on the Humanities, the official advisory board of the National Endowment for the Humanities.
*Dr. Joseph S. Pagano of the School of Medicine and John L. Sanders of the Institute of Government were among the 1996 winners of the North Carolina Awards, the highest civilian honor given by the governor. Pagano was cited as an internationally renowned researcher of viruses, human cancer, antiviral drug therapies and AIDS. Sanders was recognized for his pivotal role in public policy-making for the state and the UNC system for more than 30 years.
*Carolina boasts more endowed chairs held by black faculty members than any other university in the country, according to an ongoing study published in the Journal of Blacks in Higher Education and conducted by Chuck Stone, Spearman Professor of Journalism and Mass Communication.
*The Kenan-Flagler Business School was named the 1996 Outstanding Educational Institution of the Year by the National Black MBA Association’s Raleigh chapter for its efforts to encourage blacks to enter the field of business.

* In 1996, UNC attracted sponsored research, including grants and contracts from government and private agencies, totaling more than $248.9 million. That figure has risen sharply—up from $78.6 million in 1985 and about $70 million in 1980. Since 1981, outside research funding at UNC has increased more than 350 percent.
*In 1995-96, UNC received $139 million from the National Institutes of Health and $70 million from the National Science Foundation. Only four state-supported universities received more NIH funding.
*Carolina ranks among the nation’s top 20 research universities in the amount of total federal support for research.
*Each dollar invested in Carolina creates an estimated $4 in net earnings. That’s a four-to-one return, and it means that sponsored programs at UNC contribute about $1 billion and some 15,000 jobs to the state’s economy.
*UNC contributes skilled employees to the North Carolina economy: 60 percent of the dentists, 40 percent of the attorneys, 43 percent of the physicians, 15 percent of the city managers and more than 10 percent of the college and university professors.
*In 1996-97, UNC was awarded 21 patents, all as a result of research conducted at the university. During fiscal 1996, UNC disclosed 91 inventions and licensed 35 of them. Since 1979, seven new high-tech companies have been created as a direct result of UNC inventions. New research initiatives that promise valuable new technologies are based in areas such as environmental science, gene therapy, biomaterials science and neuroscience.
*Carolina chemists have developed a significantly improved method of synthesizing promising antiviral drugs for people with AIDS, hepatitis B and other deadly illnesses. The new method is faster and possibly cheaper than those now used to create the compounds.
*AIDS researchers at Carolina are studying a new combination of three drugs that promise to be the best treatment yet for people infected with the virus that causes AIDS.
*U.S. Secretary of Education Richard W. Riley named the Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center the National Center to Enhance Early Learning and Development, the only university-based facility aimed at boosting U.S. children’s intellectual and social development. The recognition will bring grants expected to total nearly $14 million from the National Institute on Early Childhood Development and Education to support center activities over the next five years.
*Using genetic engineering techniques, UNC medical researchers have created “knockout” mouse models to help better understand and treat several deadly diseases and health conditions. In 1992, researchers at the Cystic Fibrosis Center created the first animal model for the nation’s leading fatal genetic illness.
*Computer scientists are pioneers in virtual worlds research, using sophisticated computer technology to create realistic but imaginary worlds. Applications may help doctors fight cancer and biochemists design new drugs.
*The Lineberger Comprehensive Cancer Center is one of 26 National Cancer Institute-designated comprehensive cancer centers in the United States. In 1994, NCI awarded it a five-year, $11.3 million grant for cancer research.
The University of North Carolina and the Sears Directors’ Cup—A Winning Combination

When collectively compared to their NCAA Division I peers, the teams and the individual athletes who comprise the University of North Carolina athletic program have proven over the last seven years to be among the nation’s elite. The final standings in the Sears Directors’ Cup competition support that assertion with aplomb.

During the 1993-94 school year, the Carolina athletic program proved to be the Champion of Champions. The inaugural Sears Directors’ Cup, sponsored by Sears, Roebuck and Company, USA Today and the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA), tabbed Carolina as the nation’s best NCAA Division I sports program.

North Carolina won the championship in 1993-94 with 806.5 points. Stanford finished second with 786.5 points while UCLA was third with 779.5 points, Florida fourth with 768 points and Penn State fifth with 756 points.

In 1994-95, Carolina finished an extremely strong second behind Sears Directors’ Cup champion Stanford, the previous year’s runner-up. Stanford won with 971.5 points. UNC was second with 789 points, followed by UCLA with 736, Arizona with 716.5 and Florida with 691.

Stanford won its second straight Sears Directors’ Cup in 1995-96 while Carolina slipped to sixth in the standings, the second worst ever finish for the Tar Heel athletic program. The Cardinal finished with 961.5 points and UCLA posted a second-place finish with 836 points. Florida was third with 731.5 points, Texas fourth with 700 points, Michigan fifth with 689 and North Carolina in the sixth position in the standings with 673.5 points.

In the 1996-97 competition, Stanford won the Sears Directors’ Cup for the third straight year with a total of 1,084.5 points. UNC bounced back from its sixth place standing from the previous year and finished second in 1996-97 with 804 points.

UCLA was third, just two points behind UNC. The remainder of the Top Five teams had Nebraska in fourth place with 780.5 points and Florida in fifth place with 763.

In 1997-98, under a new scoring system, Carolina produced its fourth first or second place finish in the five-year history of the Sears Directors’ Cup.

Stanford won for the fourth successive year as the Cardinal racked up a total of 1,010 points. The Cardinal’s winning margin was an amazing 350 points.

In 1998-99, Stanford won its second straight Sears Directors Cup competition, placing in a tie for 17th place.

During the past school year the Tar Heel athletic program rebounded from its 17th place finish of a year ago by claiming a fifth place standing in the 1999-2000 Sears Directors’ Cup standings. Stanford won its sixth successive Sears Directors’ Cup title by totaling 1,359.5 points. UCLA was second with 1,153.5 points. Michigan earned 965 points and claimed third place.

The next three spots in the standings featured a pitched battle between North Carolina, Penn State and Nebraska. The Nittany Lion athletic program prevailed in the race for fourth place as North Carolina finished with 909.5 points. The Tar Heel athletic program finished just one point behind with 908.5 points for fifth place. Nebraska followed in sixth place with 906 points.

The remainder of the Top 10 teams from last year included Florida in seventh place with 842 points, Arizona in eighth place with 837.5 points, Texas in ninth place with 801 points and Louisiana State in 10th place with 764 points.

North Carolina remains among a handful of schools which have placed in the Top 20 of the standings each year.

The Cup competition honors the school with the best NCAA championship performances in 20 sports. A school can count as many as 10 men’s and 10 women’s sports...
ACC CHAMPIONSHIPS
The University of North Carolina has won 211 ACC championships in its history, more than any other school in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

in determining its Sears Directors’ Cup point total. No more than 20 sports can be counted and no more than 10 sports can be counted per gender. The 10 best finishes for either men or women are used in determining the point totals, regardless of sport. Only NCAA sponsored sports and Division I football are eligible for scoring purposes.

Men’s sports are baseball, basketball, cross country, football, golf, gymnastics, ice hockey, lacrosse, soccer, swimming and diving, tennis, track and field, volleyball, water polo and wrestling.

Women’s sports are basketball, cross country, field hockey, golf, gymnastics, lacrosse, rowing, soccer, softball, swimming and diving, tennis, track and field and volleyball.

The coed sports of fencing, skiing and rifle can be used for either gender, whichever produces the most points for the school. A school uses only one track finish per year, indoor or outdoor, whichever is higher.

Sears Directors’ Cup points are based on a team’s NCAA Tournament finish and the size of the tournament bracket and it varies from sport to sport. A school must qualify for the NCAA Tournament to be eligible for points in any given sport. Poll finishes are not used to determine points in any sport except NCAA Division I football where points are based on the final USA Today/ESPN coaches poll of the season.

The UNC athletic program has also had tremendous success in Atlantic Coast Conference competition. UNChas won 211 ACC team championships in history, far more than any of the other league schools.

The athletic program has produced a minimum of four Atlantic Coast Conference team championships in each of the past 13 years and has led or tied all ACC schools in title production each of those years. During those 13 years Carolina won at least six ACC championships in a year 12 times.

The Tar Heel men’s tennis program leads the way with 24 Atlantic Coast Conference championships in its history. The Tar Heel men’s swimming and diving team has produced 17 league titles and the men’s basketball squad has won 15 ACC championships. The winningest Tar Heel women’s sports program in terms of ACC championships is Coach Karen Shelton’s field hockey program, which has captured 14 ACC titles.

The Tar Heel athletic program has claimed 29 team national championships in its history led by the 16 won by the women’s soccer team. Carolina has also won four national championships each in men’s basketball, men’s lacrosse and field hockey and one national title in women’s basketball.

The 16 championships won by the women’s soccer team have all come in the last 19 seasons. Carolina has won the title every year since 1981 with the exception of 1985, 1995 and 1998. Field hockey has four titles to its credit in 1989 and then three successive crowns in 1995, 1996 and 1997.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AND OUR FRIENDS AT NIKE

On October 2, 1993, the University of North Carolina and NIKE, Inc., entered into a contract which has supplied athletic equipment and apparel to the University's Department of Athletics. The initial four-year contract between UNC and NIKE expired in 1997 but at that time the two entities agreed to a new contract for an additional five years. At that time, the UNC men's and women's soccer programs, both highly successful, were brought under the umbrella of the contract.

Terms of the agreement call for NIKE to provide the University's athletic teams, including the men's and women's swimming and diving programs, with equipment and apparel free of charge for the length of the contract. Product value will be approximately $2 million.

All 28 University of North Carolina sports teams—13 men's programs and 15 women's programs—are participating in the program and receive shoes, uniforms, travel bags and warm-ups—and in the case of the Tar Heel swimming teams, both competition and practice swimming suits.

The North Carolina men's and women's swimming and diving program is extremely proud of its ongoing association with NIKE and looks forward to being a part of the NIKE team for the next four years. Look for the swoosh on the Tar Heel swimming suits this year. You will then know Carolina is a proud member of team NIKE. Go Tar Heels!
